Time is running out if we continue as we are!

A BOOK looking at the finite nature of our current global system was launched last month.

Sixty Harvests Left: How to Reach a Nature-Friendly Future is the third book from award-winning author and global chief executive officer of Compassion in World Farming, Philip Lymbery, who was appointed an ambassadorial 'Champion' for the UN Food Systems Summit in 2021.

The book presents the unpalatable truth that if we allow our global farming system to continue, there will only be 60 harvests left.

Taking its title from a warning made by the United Nations that the world's soils could be gone within a lifetime, Sixty Harvests Left uncovers how the food industry threatens our world.

Put simply, without soils, there will be no food, and time is running out.

Philip paints a vivid picture of the climate, nature and health emergencies humankind faces. The solutions he presents have a regenerative, nature-positive farming focus on soil and the interconnectedness of all life on our planet.
